This example is intended to help you compare the cost of investing in the fund with the cost of investing in other mutual funds.

The example assumes that you invest $10,000 in the fund for the time periods indicated and then redeem all of your shares at the end of those periods. The example also assumes that your investment has a 5% return each year and that the fund’s operating expenses remain the same.

Although your actual costs may be higher or lower, based on these assumptions your costs would be:

Principal strategies

Principal investments

The fund is a money market fund and seeks to maintain a stable price of $1.00 per share. To do this, the fund invests in a diversified portfolio of high quality, US government money market instruments and in related repurchase agreements.

Money market instruments generally are short-term debt obligations and similar securities. They also may include longer-term bonds that have variable interest rates or other special features that give them the financial characteristics of short-term debt. The fund has adopted a policy to invest 99.5% or more of its total assets in cash, government securities, and/or repurchase agreements that are collateralized fully (i.e., collateralized by cash and/or government securities) in order to qualify as a “government money market fund” under federal regulations. By operating as a government money market fund, the fund is exempt from requirements that permit the imposition of a liquidity fee and/or temporary redemption gates. While the fund’s board may elect to subject the fund to liquidity fee and gate requirements in the future, the board has not elected to do so at this time. Many US government money market instruments pay income that is generally exempt from state and local income tax, although they may be subject to corporate franchise tax in some states. In addition, under normal circumstances, the fund invests at least 80% of its net assets in US government securities, including government securities subject to repurchase agreements.

The fund may invest a significant percentage of its assets in repurchase agreements. Repurchase agreements are transactions in which the fund purchases government securities and simultaneously commits to resell them to the same counterparty at a future time and at a price reflecting a market rate of interest. Income from repurchase agreements may not be exempt from state and local income taxation. Repurchase agreements often offer a higher yield than investments directly in government securities. In deciding whether an investment in a repurchase agreement is more attractive than a direct investment in government securities, the fund considers the possible loss of this tax advantage.

Management process

UBS Asset Management (Americas) Inc. ("UBS AM") acts as the investment advisor. As investment advisor, UBS AM makes the fund's investment decisions. UBS AM selects money market instruments for the fund based on its assessment of relative values and changes in market and economic conditions.

UBS AM considers safety of principal and liquidity in selecting securities for the fund and thus may not buy securities that pay the highest yield.

Principal risks

All investments carry a certain amount of risk, and the fund cannot guarantee that it will achieve its investment objective.

You could lose money by investing in the fund. Although the fund seeks to preserve the value of your investment at $1.00 per share, it cannot guarantee it will do so. An investment in the fund is not insured or guaranteed by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation or any other government agency. The fund's sponsor has no legal obligation to provide financial support to the fund, and you should not expect that the sponsor will provide financial support to the fund at any time.

Money market instruments generally have a low risk of loss, but they are not risk-free. The principal risks presented by an investment in the fund are:

Credit risk: Issuers of money market instruments may fail to make payments when due, or they may become less willing or less able to do so.

US Government securities risk: There are different types of US government securities with different levels of credit risk, including the risk of default, depending on the nature of the particular government support for that security. For example, a US government-sponsored entity, such as Federal National Mortgage Association ("Fannie Mae") or Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation ("Freddie Mac"), although chartered or sponsored by an Act of Congress, may issue securities that are neither insured nor guaranteed by the US Treasury and are therefore riskier than those that are.

Interest rate risk: The value of the fund's investments generally will fall when interest rates rise, and its yield will tend to lag behind prevailing rates. The risks associated with rising interest rates may be more pronounced going forward due to the anticipated end of an extended period of historically low rates.

Market risk: The risk that the market value of the fund's investments may fluctuate, sometimes rapidly or unpredictably, as the markets fluctuate, which may affect the fund's ability to maintain a $1.00 share price. Market risk may affect a single issuer, industry, or sector of the economy, or it may affect the market as a whole. Moreover, changing market, economic and political conditions in one country or geographic region could adversely impact market, economic and political conditions in other countries or regions.

Liquidity risk: Although the fund invests in a diversified portfolio of high quality instruments, the fund’s investments may become less liquid as a result of market developments or adverse investor perception.

Management risk: The risk that the investment strategies, techniques and risk analyses employed by the advisor may not produce the desired results.

Additional information about the investment objective

The fund's investment objective may not be changed without shareholder approval.

Additional information about investment strategies

The fund seeks to achieve its investment objective by investing in a diversified portfolio of high quality, US government money market instruments and in related repurchase agreements, which generally are short-term debt obligations and similar securities. They also may include longer-term bonds that have variable interest rates or other special features that give them the financial characteristics of short-term debt. Many US government money market instruments pay income that is generally exempt from state and local income tax, although they may be subject to corporate franchise tax in some states. The fund may invest a significant percentage of its assets in repurchase agreements. Repurchase agreements are transactions in which the fund purchases government securities and simultaneously commits to resell them to the same counterparty at a future time and at a price reflecting a market rate of interest. Income from repurchase agreements may not be exempt from state and local income taxation. Repurchase agreements often offer a higher yield than investments directly in government securities. In deciding whether an investment in a repurchase agreement is more attractive than a direct investment in government securities, the fund considers the possible loss of this tax advantage.

The fund's board has determined that the fund will operate as a "government money market fund" pursuant to Rule 2a-7 under the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended ("Rule 2a-7"). Therefore, the fund has adopted a policy to invest 99.5% or more of its total assets in cash, government securities, and/or repurchase agreements that are collateralized fully (i.e., collateralized with cash and/or government securities). As a "government money market fund," the fund (1) will be permitted to use the amortized cost method of valuation to seek to maintain a $1.00 share price, and (2) will not be subject to a liquidity fee and/or a redemption gate on fund redemptions which might apply to other types of funds in the future should certain triggering events specified in Rule 2a-7 occur. (In conformance with Rule 2a-7, the fund's board has reserved its ability to change this policy with respect to liquidity fees and/or redemption gates, but such change would only become effective after shareholders were provided with specific advance notice of a change in the fund's policy and have the opportunity to redeem their shares in accordance with Rule 2a-7 before the policy change became effective.)

In addition, under normal circumstances, the fund invests at least 80% of its net assets in US government securities, including government securities subject to repurchase agreements. The fund's 80% policy is a "non-fundamental" policy. This means that this investment policy may be changed by the fund's board without shareholder approval. However, the fund has also adopted a policy to provide its shareholders with at least 60 days' prior written notice of any change to the 80% investment policy.

Like all money market funds, the fund is subject to maturity, quality, diversification and liquidity requirements under Rule 2a-7. The fund's investment strategies are designed to comply with these requirements. The fund may invest in high quality, short-term, US dollar-denominated money market instruments paying a fixed, variable or floating interest rate.

UBS AM may use a number of professional money management techniques to respond to changing economic and money market conditions and to shifts in fiscal and monetary policy. These techniques include varying the fund's composition and weighted average maturity based upon UBS AM's assessment of the relative values of various money market instruments and future interest rate patterns. UBS AM also may buy or sell money market instruments to take advantage of yield differences.

More information about the fund

Although not a principal strategy of the fund, the fund may invest to a limited extent in shares of similar money market funds. The fund's investments in other money market funds that comply with the definition of a "government money market fund" under Rule 2a-7 will be treated as investments in the underlying securities held by such money market funds for the purposes of the fund's policy to invest 99.5% or more of its total assets in cash, government securities, and/or repurchase agreements that are collateralized fully (i.e., collateralized by cash and/or government securities).

Additional information about principal risks

The main risks of investing in the fund are described below.

Other risks of investing in the fund, along with further details about some of the risks described below, are discussed in the fund's Statement of Additional Information ("SAI"). Information on how you can obtain the SAI can be found on the back cover of this prospectus.

Credit risk. Credit risk is the risk that the issuer of a money market instrument will not make principal or interest payments when they are due. Even if an issuer does not default on a payment, a money market instrument's value may decline if the market believes that the issuer has become less able, or less willing, to make payments on time. Even the highest quality money market instruments are subject to some credit risk. The credit quality of an issuer can change rapidly due to market developments and may affect the fund's ability to maintain a $1.00 share price.

US Government securities risk. Credit risk is the risk that the issuer will not make principal or interest payments when they are due. There are different types of US government securities with different relative levels of credit risk depending on the nature of the particular government support for that security. US government securities may be supported by (1) the full faith and credit of the US; (2) the ability of the issuer to borrow from the US Treasury; (3) the credit of the issuing agency, instrumentality or government-sponsored entity; (4) pools of assets (e.g., mortgage-backed securities); or (5) the US in some other way. In some cases, there is even the risk of default. For example, for asset-backed securities there is the risk those assets will decrease in value below the face value of the security. Similarly, for certain agency issued securities there is no guarantee the US government will support the agency if it is unable to meet its obligations. Further, the US government and its agencies and instrumentalities do not guarantee the market value of their securities; consequently, the value of such securities will fluctuate.

Interest rate risk. The value of money market instruments generally can be expected to fall when short-term interest rates rise and to rise when short-term interest rates fall. Interest rate risk is the risk that interest rates will rise, so that the value of the fund's investments will fall. Also, the fund's yield will tend to lag behind changes in prevailing short-term interest rates. This means that the fund's income will tend to rise more slowly than increases in short-term interest rates. Similarly, when short-term interest rates are falling, the fund's income generally will tend to fall more slowly.

The historically low interest rate environment increases the risk associated with rising interest rates, including the potential for periods of volatility and increased redemptions. The fund may face a heightened level of interest rate risk since the US Federal Reserve Board has ended its quantitative easing program and may continue to raise rates.

Market risk. The market value of the fund's investments may fluctuate as the markets fluctuate. Market fluctuation may affect the fund's ability to maintain a $1.00 share price. Market risk, sometimes dramatically or unpredictably, may affect a single issuer, industry, section of the economy or geographic region, or it may affect the market as a whole. Volatility of financial markets can expose the fund to greater market risk, possibly resulting in greater illiquidity and valuation risks. Moreover, market, economic and political conditions in one country or geographic region could adversely impact market, economic and political conditions in other countries or regions, including countries and regions in which the fund invests, due to increasingly interconnected global economies and financial markets. Additionally, market conditions and legislative, regulatory, or tax developments may affect the investment techniques available to the advisor in connection with managing the fund and may result in increased regulation of the fund or its investments, and, in turn, may adversely affect the ability of the fund to achieve its investment objective and the fund's performance.

Liquidity risk. The fund's investments may become less liquid due to market developments or adverse investor perception. When there is no willing buyer and investments cannot be readily sold at the desired time or price, the fund may have to accept a lower price or may not be able to sell an instrument at all. The inability to sell an instrument could adversely affect the fund's ability to maintain a $1.00 share price or prevent the fund from being able to take advantage of other investment opportunities. This risk may increase during an unusually high volume of redemption requests by even a few large investors or unusual market conditions.

Management risk. There is the risk that the investment strategies, techniques and risk analyses employed by the advisor may not produce the desired results. The advisor may be incorrect in its assessment of a particular security or assessment of market, interest rate or other trends, which can result in losses to the fund.

Additional (non-principal) risks

Securities lending risk. Securities lending involves the lending of portfolio securities owned by the fund to qualified broker-dealers and financial institutions. When lending portfolio securities, the fund initially will require the borrower to provide the fund with collateral, most commonly cash, which the fund will invest. Although the fund invests this collateral in a conservative manner, it is possible that it could lose money from such an investment or fail to earn sufficient income from its investment to cover the fee or rebate that it has agreed to pay the borrower. Loans of securities also involve a risk that the borrower may fail to return the securities or deliver the proper amount of collateral, which may result in a loss to the fund. In addition, in the event of bankruptcy of the borrower, the fund could experience losses or delays in recovering the loaned securities. In some cases, these risks may be mitigated by an indemnification provided by the fund's lending agent.

Temporary defensive positioning. During adverse market conditions or when the advisor believes there is an insufficient supply of appropriate money market securities in which to invest, the fund may temporarily hold uninvested cash in lieu of such investments. During periods when such temporary or defensive positions are held, the fund may not be able to fully pursue its investment objective. Such positions may also subject the fund to additional costs and risks, such as increased exposure to cash held at a custodian bank.

Managing your fund account

Buying shares

The fund offers its shares primarily to eligible benefit plans, including individual retirement accounts, through brokerage accounts established as eligible benefit plan sweep accounts at UBS Financial Services Inc. or certain other financial services firms. The types of eligible benefit plans that are permitted to buy fund shares are described below. The list below is not exhaustive, and the fund reserves the right to offer its shares to other similar types of eligible benefit plans. You can open an eligible benefit plan sweep account by contacting your Financial Advisor.

Fund shares are available primarily to eligible benefit plans that participate in certain investment programs offered by UBS Financial Services Inc. or an affiliate. The eligible investment programs include, but are not limited to:

- UBS Financial Services Inc. ACCESSSM;
- UBS Financial Services Inc. Managed Accounts Consulting (MAC) Wrap;
- UBS Financial Services Inc. Portfolio Management Program (PMP);
- UBS Financial Services Inc. SELECTIONSSM; and
- Private Wealth SolutionsSM.

The fund may be made available to other programs. (ACCESS and SELECTIONS are servicemarks of UBS Financial Services Inc. Private Wealth Solutions is a servicemark of UBS AM.)

The fund is designed primarily for eligible benefit plans that participate in these programs and other similar programs. In addition to the programs named above, fund shares are available for purchase by (i) qualified benefit plans with pooled account structures and (ii) Wilmington Trust Fiduciary Services (formerly UBS Fiduciary Trust Company) Collective Investment Trust Portfolios for Employee Benefit Plans.

The terms of your securities account are more fully described in separate materials your Financial Advisor can provide you (the “UBS Account Agreements”). Not all correspondent firms have arrangements with UBS Financial Services Inc. to make fund shares available to their customers.

Automatic sweep programs. UBS Financial Services Inc. administers bank deposit sweep programs under which free cash balances in certain client securities accounts are automatically swept into interest-bearing deposit accounts (the “Bank Sweep Programs”). The terms and eligibility requirements for the Bank Sweep Programs are described in the UBS Bank Sweep Programs Disclosure Statement (the “Disclosure Statement”), which is part of the UBS Account Agreements.

Investors who are eligible to participate in the Bank Sweep Programs are referred to as “eligible participants” below to distinguish them from other investors in the fund.

Free cash balances (that is, immediately available funds) of certain eligible participants automatically default to an interest-bearing deposit account (based on account type) as a primary sweep option.

Accounts participating in the Bank Sweep Programs are generally subject to an automatic dollar limit or “cap” of $250,000 per securities account owner, which will apply to the amount that can be swept into bank deposit accounts under the applicable Bank Sweep Program. Available balances in excess of the cap will be automatically invested in a "secondary sweep option," which will be an available money market fund, including this fund.

Certain non-eligible participants may be eligible to have free cash balances in their securities accounts automatically invested in shares of this fund as their "primary sweep option." For example, a qualified plan with a pooled account structure is a non-eligible participant and will have free cash balances automatically invested in shares of this fund as the primary sweep option. Please refer to the UBS Account Agreements for more information.

Selecting and changing your sweep option.

Please refer to the UBS Account Agreements for information on available sweep options, including restrictions and eligibility requirements. If you would like to change your sweep option, please contact your Financial Advisor at UBS Financial Services Inc.

Eligible participants in the Bank Sweep Programs may also purchase shares of the fund from their available balances. See "Buying shares of the fund by eligible participants" below.

Background information. Your purchase of fund shares will be priced at the next determination of net asset value on any business day after federal funds become available to the fund. Federal funds are funds deposited by a commercial bank in an account at a Federal Reserve bank that can be transferred to a similar account of another bank in one day and thus can be made immediately available to the fund. A business day is any day that the Boston offices of the fund's custodian and the New York City offices of UBS Financial Services Inc. and its bank are all open for business. One or more of these institutions will be closed on the observance of the following holidays:

New Year's Day, Martin Luther King, Jr. Day, President's Day, Good Friday, Memorial Day, Independence Day, Labor Day, Columbus Day, Veteran's Day, Thanksgiving Day and Christmas Day.

The fund, UBS AM and UBS AM (US) have the right to reject a purchase order and to suspend the offering of fund shares for a period of time or permanently.

The fund pays no sales commission, sales load or distribution fees to its principal underwriter, UBS AM (US), and its affiliates, or any other person, in connection with the sale of fund shares. Neither UBS AM (US) nor any affiliate exercises any discretion with respect to the timing or frequency of the automatic investment of free cash balances.

Please consult your Financial Advisor for more information about the automatic purchase feature.

All free cash balances in securities accounts of $1.00 or more (or for IRAs, of $0.01 or more), including proceeds from the securities you have sold, are automatically invested in your sweep option on a daily basis for settlement the same day. There is no sales charge or commission paid for the automatic purchase of shares.

Eligible participants for the Bank Sweep Programs. Please refer to the Disclosure Statement for more information about eligible participants in the Bank Sweep Programs.

Buying shares of the fund by eligible participants. Eligible participants may withdraw available balances in the Bank Sweep Programs in order to directly purchase shares of the fund. The fund has a $5,000 minimum investment requirement for such purchases. For more information, please contact your Financial Advisor at UBS Financial Services Inc.

Minimum investments

Except as noted above with respect to buying shares of the fund by eligible participants, the fund has no minimum for initial investments or to add to an account, but reserves the right to establish minimum investment requirements at any time.

Benefit plans eligible to buy fund shares

Eligible benefit plans that may buy fund shares include:

- individual retirement accounts (e.g., traditional, rollover and “SIMPLE” IRAs);
- simplified employee pension plans;
- cash or deferred arrangements (i.e., 401(k) plans, including SIMPLE 401(k) plans);
- profit sharing plans;
- money purchase plans;
- defined benefit plans;
- target benefit plans;
- church plans;
- government plans; and
- self-employed plans (i.e., “Keoghs”).

Other benefit plans may be eligible to buy fund shares. Contact your Financial Advisor for more information regarding these benefit plans.

Although the amount that you may contribute to an eligible benefit plan in any one year is subject to certain limitations, you may invest and reinvest assets already held in an eligible benefit plan in the fund without regard to these limitations. In addition to the programs named above, fund shares are available for purchase by (i) qualified benefit plans with pooled account structures and (ii) Wilmington Trust Fiduciary Services (formerly UBS Fiduciary Trust Company) Collective Investment Trust Portfolios for Employee Benefit Plans.

Selling shares

Shares of the fund are sold automatically in the order described in the UBS Account Agreements to settle any outstanding securities purchases or other debits to your UBS Financial Services Inc. securities account.

Eligible participants who directly purchased shares of the fund may sell their shares and transfer the proceeds back to the Bank Sweep Programs (provided deposit balances have not reached the cap) by contacting their Financial Advisor in person or by telephone or mail.

If the proceeds from selling your fund shares remain in the eligible benefit plan sweep account, certain adverse tax consequences that may otherwise be applicable to eligible benefit plan distributions will not occur.

Also, if conditions exist that make cash payments undesirable, the fund reserves the right to honor any request for redemption by making payments in whole or in part in securities, to the extent permitted under applicable law.

More information regarding “Eligible participants”

For eligibility requirements for the Bank Sweep Programs, please refer to the Disclosure Statement.

The list of eligible participants may change at the discretion of UBS Financial Services Inc.

Temporary sweep option. If you are an eligible participant, in the event that the bank offering the interest-bearing deposit accounts into which your free cash balances are swept elects to stop taking deposits at its discretion or if it is prohibited from doing so by its banking regulators, your free cash balances will be swept to a temporary sweep option. The fund will be a temporary sweep option for certain eligible participants. Please refer to the Disclosure Statement for more information regarding the temporary sweep option and how it may be implemented.

Additional information about your account

Investment programs buying or holding shares for their client accounts may charge clients for cash management and other services provided in connection with their accounts.

You should consider the terms of your investment program before purchasing shares.

You will receive a confirmation of your purchases and sales of fund shares on periodic account statements. These periodic statements may be sent monthly except that, if your only fund activity in a quarter was reinvestment of dividends, the activity may be reported on a quarterly rather than a monthly statement.

To help the government fight the funding of terrorism and money laundering activities, federal law requires all financial institutions to obtain, verify and record information that identifies each person who opens an account. If you do not provide the information requested, the fund may not be able to maintain your account. If the fund is unable to verify your identity or that of another person(s) authorized to act on your behalf, the fund and UBS AM (US) reserve the right to close your account and/or take such other action they deem reasonable or required by law. Fund shares will be redeemed and valued in accordance with the net asset value next calculated after the determination has been made to close the account.

Upon receipt of a proper redemption request submitted in a timely manner and otherwise in accordance with the redemption procedures set forth in this prospectus, the fund will redeem the requested shares and make a payment. The fund may postpone and/or suspend redemption and payment beyond one business day (but within seven calendar days) for any period during which there is a non-routine closure of the Fedwire or applicable Federal Reserve Banks. In addition, the fund may also postpone or suspend redemption and payment as follows: (1) for any period (a) during which the New York Stock Exchange ("NYSE") is closed other than customary weekend and holiday closings or (b) during which trading on the NYSE is restricted; (2) for any period during which an emergency exists as a result of which (a) disposal by the fund of securities owned by it is not reasonably practicable or (b) it is not reasonably practicable for the fund fairly to determine the net asset value of shares of the fund; (3) for any period during which the SEC has, by rule or regulation, deemed that (a) trading shall be restricted or (b) an emergency exists; (4) for any period that the SEC may by order permit for your protection; or (5) for any period during which the fund, as part of a necessary liquidation of the fund, has properly postponed and/or suspended redemption of shares and payment in accordance with federal securities laws.

Market timing

Frequent purchases and redemptions of fund shares could increase the fund's transaction costs, such as market spreads and custodial fees, and may interfere with the efficient management of the fund's portfolio, which could impact the fund's performance. However, money market funds are generally used by investors for short-term investments, often in place of bank checking or savings accounts or for cash management purposes. Investors value the ability to add and withdraw their funds quickly, without restriction. UBS AM (US) anticipates that shareholders will purchase and sell fund shares frequently because the fund is designed to offer investors a liquid cash option. UBS AM (US) also believes that money market funds, such as the fund, are not targets of abusive trading practices. For these reasons, the fund's board has not adopted policies and procedures, or imposed redemption fees or other restrictions such as minimum holding periods, to discourage excessive or short-term trading of fund shares.

Other UBS funds that are managed by UBS AM that are not money market funds have approved policies and procedures designed to discourage and prevent abusive trading practices. For more information about market timing policies and procedures for these funds, please see the funds' prospectuses.

Pricing and valuation

The price of fund shares is based on net asset value. The net asset value per share is the total value of the fund divided by the total number of shares outstanding. In determining net asset value, the fund values its securities at their amortized cost, unless the fund's board (or its delegate) determines that this does not represent fair value. The amortized cost method uses a constant amortization to maturity of the difference between the cost of the instrument to the fund and the amount due at maturity. The fund's net asset value per share is expected to be $1.00, although this value is not guaranteed.

The fund typically calculates net asset value per share once each business day as of 12:00 noon, Eastern time. Your price for buying or selling shares will be the net asset value that is next calculated after the fund receives your order in good form.

Your Financial Advisor is responsible for making sure that your order is promptly sent to the fund when shares are purchased other than through the automatic sweep program described above.

The fund's board has delegated to a UBS AM valuation committee the responsibility for making fair value determinations with respect to the fund's portfolio securities. The types of securities and other instruments for which such fair value pricing may be necessary include, but are not limited to: securities of an issuer that has entered into a restructuring; fixed-income securities that have gone into default and for which there is no current market value quotation; Section 4(a)(2) commercial paper; securities or instruments that are restricted as to transfer or resale; illiquid instruments; and instruments for which the prices or values available do not, in the judgment of UBS AM, represent current market value. The need to fair value the fund's portfolio securities may also result from low trading volume in foreign markets or thinly traded securities or instruments. Various factors may be reviewed in order to make a good faith determination of a security's or instrument's fair value. These factors include, but are not limited to, fundamental analytical data relating to the investment; the nature and duration of restrictions on disposition of the securities or instruments; and the evaluation of forces which influence the market in which the securities or instruments are purchased and sold.

Although not a principal strategy of the fund, the fund's portfolio investments may also consist of shares of other investment companies in which the fund invests. The value of each such open-end investment company will generally be its net asset value at the time the fund's shares are priced. Pursuant to the fund's use of the practical expedient within ASC Topic 820, investments in non-registered investment companies are also valued at the daily net asset value. Each investment company generally values securities and other instruments in a manner as described in that investment company's prospectus or similar document.

UBS is an internationally diversified organization headquartered in Zurich, Switzerland and with operations in many areas of the financial services group of industries.

Advisory and administration fees

The fund has agreed to pay advisory and administration fees to UBS AM that are limited to reimbursements for estimated direct costs, excluding any profit or overhead. For the fiscal year ended April 30, 2016, UBS AM voluntarily waived its entire advisory and administrative fee. Had UBS AM not done so, the fund would have paid UBS AM advisory and administrative fees at an estimated effective annual rate of 0.06% of its average daily net assets. As of the date of this prospectus, UBS AM is waiving its entire management fee but may terminate this voluntary waiver at any time.

Under the agreement with the fund, UBS AM manages the investment operations of the fund and also administers the fund's business affairs.

UBS AM is entitled to be reimbursed by the fund for its direct advisory and administrative costs and expenses, excluding any profit or overhead, incurred in providing services to the fund. UBS AM's costs include the following: (i) paying the salaries and expenses of the fund's officers and other personnel engaged in administering the fund's business; (ii) monitoring financial and shareholder accounting services provided by the fund's custodian and transfer agent, respectively; (iii) responding to shareholder inquiries and disseminating information to shareholders; (iv) monitoring compliance with the fund's registration statement and other operating documents, with federal and state securities laws and rules thereunder and with the Internal Revenue Code; (v) preparing semiannual and annual reports to shareholders; (vi) preparing filings required by the SEC; (vii) assisting in the preparation of federal, state and local tax returns; (viii) assisting with the payment of notice filing fees under state securities laws; (ix) organizing annual and special meetings of the fund's shareholders; and (x) paying any other costs and expenses UBS AM incurs in managing the portfolio of the fund. UBS AM periodically will review fund expenses in an effort to confirm that only direct costs and expenses are paid to UBS AM by the fund. The fund will incur other expenses in its operations.

A discussion regarding the basis for the board's approval of the fund's Investment Advisory and Administration Contract with UBS AM is available in the fund's semiannual report to shareholders for the fiscal period ended October 31, 2015.

Other information

To the extent authorized by law, the fund reserves the right to discontinue offering shares at any time, merge, reorganize itself or cease operations and liquidate.

Dividends and taxes

Dividends

The fund declares dividends daily and pays them monthly. The fund may distribute all or a portion of its capital gains (if any) to the extent required to ensure that the fund maintains its federal tax law status as a regulated investment company. The fund will also distribute all or a portion of its capital gains to the extent necessary to maintain its share price at $1.00.

You will receive dividends in additional shares of the fund. Shares earn dividends on the day they are purchased but not on the day they are sold.

While the fund declares dividends daily and pays them monthly, the amounts are rounded to the nearest $0.01 on a daily basis with respect to each investor's fund account. As a result, investors whose fund account balances earn daily dividends that total less than one half a cent on any given day will not accrue any dividends on that day.

The fund notifies its shareholders following the end of each calendar year of the amount of all dividends paid that year.

Taxes

Eligible benefit plan participants ordinarily do not pay taxes on dividends their plans receive on fund shares until they withdraw the proceeds from the plan. Generally, withdrawals from an eligible benefit plan will be taxable as ordinary income. Withdrawals will be subject to an additional tax equal to 10% of the amount distributed unless the withdrawals are used to pay certain higher education expenses, certain acquisition costs of first-time home buyers, or in certain situations, are made after the participant:

- reaches age 59 ½;

- becomes permanently disabled; or
- for certain employer-sponsored plans, reaches at least age 55 and separates from service of the employer who sponsored the plan.

You should consult your tax adviser concerning the timing and tax consequences of withdrawals from your eligible benefit plan.

The failure of an eligible benefit plan to make sufficient distributions to a participant after the participant reaches age 70 ½ may be subject to an excise tax. Moreover, certain contributions to a benefit plan in excess of the amounts permitted by law may be subject to an excise tax.

If you hold fund shares other than through a tax-exempt account or plan such as an IRA or 401(k) plan, the dividends that you receive from the fund generally are subject to federal income tax regardless of whether you receive them in additional fund shares or in cash. For these shareholders, the fund expects that its dividends will be taxed as ordinary income.

Although dividends are generally treated as taxable to you in the year they are paid, dividends declared in October, November or December but paid in January are taxable as if they were paid in December.

An additional 3.8% Medicare tax is imposed on certain net investment income (including ordinary dividends and capital gain distributions received from the fund and net gains from redemptions or other taxable dispositions of fund shares) of U.S. individuals, estates and trusts to the extent that such person's "modified adjusted gross income" (in the case of an individual) or "adjusted gross income" (in the case of an estate or trust) exceeds certain threshold amounts.

The fund may be required to withhold a 28% federal tax on all dividends payable to you

- if you fail to provide the fund or UBS Financial Services Inc. with your correct taxpayer identification number on Form W-9 (for US citizens and resident aliens) or to make required certifications, or
- if you have been notified by the IRS that you are subject to backup withholding.

Taxable distributions to non-residents will generally be subject to a 30% withholding tax (or lower applicable treaty rate).

The fund is required to withhold US tax (at a 30% rate) on payments of taxable dividends and (effective January 1, 2019) redemption proceeds and certain capital gains dividends made to certain non-US entities that fail to comply (or be deemed compliant) with extensive new reporting and withholding requirements designed to inform the US Department of the Treasury of US-owned foreign investment accounts. Shareholders may be requested to provide additional information to the fund to enable the fund to determine whether withholding is required.

The above is a general and abbreviated discussion of certain tax considerations, and each investor is advised to consult with his or her own tax advisor. There is additional information on taxes in the fund's SAI.

The UBS AM Web site will also disclose the following information for the fund as of the end of each business day for the previous six months: (1) the percentage of the fund's total assets invested in daily and weekly liquid assets; (2) the fund's daily net inflows and outflows; and (3) the fund's current market-based net asset value per share to four decimal places, which is calculated using current market quotations (or an appropriate substitute that reflects current market conditions). (This is being provided for informational purposes only—for purposes of transactions in shares of the fund, the price for shares will be the net asset value per share, calculated using the amortized cost method to two decimal places as further described in the fund's prospectus and SAI.)

Please consult the fund's SAI for a description of the policies and procedures that govern disclosure of the fund's portfolio holdings.

Financial highlights

The following financial highlights table is intended to help you understand the fund's financial performance for the past five years. Certain information reflects financial results for a single fund share. In the table, "total investment return" represents the rate that an investor would have earned on an investment in the fund (assuming reinvestment of all dividends and distributions).

The information in the financial highlights has been derived from the financial statements audited by Ernst & Young LLP, an independent registered public accounting firm, whose report, along with the fund's financial statements, is included in the fund's annual report to shareholders. The annual report may be obtained without charge by calling toll free 1-800-647 1568.

¹ Prior to April 15, 2016, the fund was named UBS Liquid Assets Fund, and the fund operated under certain different investment policies. The fund's preceding historical performance does not represent its current investment policies.

² Amount represents less than $0.0005 per share.

³ Total investment return is calculated assuming a $10,000 investment on the first day of each year reported, reinvestment of all dividends and other distributions, if any, at net asset value on the payable dates, and a sale at net asset value on the last day of each year reported. Returns do not reflect the deduction of taxes that a shareholder would pay on Fund distributions.

⁴ In August 2013, UBS AM made a voluntary cash payment of $57,843 to the fund in order to address a differential between the number of share outstanding and the fund's net assets. The differential was attributed to historical, embedded capital losses that were experienced by the fund over several years prior to the credit crisis of 2008. Payment from investment advisor had no impact on the fund's total investment return and represents less than $0.0005 per share.

UBS Asset Management, Americas Region

Business continuity planning overview

UBS Asset Management affiliates UBS Asset Management (US) Inc. and UBS Asset Management (Americas) Inc. protect information assets, processes, and customer data from unpredictable events through preparation and testing of a comprehensive business continuity capability. This capability seeks recovery of the technology infrastructure and information, and prevention of the loss of company or customer information and transactions. In the event of a crisis scenario, we will recover those functions deemed to be critical to our business and our clients, and strive to resume processing within predefined time frames following a disaster declaration (typically 4-6 hours). Business continuity processes provide us the ability to continue critical business functions regardless of the type, scope, or duration of a localized event. However, these processes are dependent upon various external resources beyond our control, such as regional telecommunications, transportation networks, and other public utilities.

Essential elements of the business continuity plan include:

- Crisis communication procedures—Action plans for coordinating essential communications for crisis management leaders, employees, and key business partners
- Information technology backup and recovery procedures—Comprehensive technology and data management plans designed to protect the integrity and quick recovery of essential technology infrastructure and data
- Disaster recovery site—Alternative dedicated workspace, technology infrastructure, and systems support that is designed to be fully operational within 2-4 hours of a disaster declaration
- Testing regimen—The business continuity plan is reviewed on a quarterly basis and tested on an annual basis, including full activation of the disaster recovery facility. In addition, all IT application recovery plans are updated and tested annually.

This business continuity planning overview is not a part of the prospectus.
